Ever wonder the Who's, What's and How's of Modern TV and Radio?

Join us for a dynamic insider's look at the world of public television and radio with IU's very own Perry Metz. Metz has served as the Chair of the statewide consortium of Indiana Public Broadcasting Stations since 1995. He oversees the radio and television stations, which broadcast NPR, PBS, BBC, and original content, along with "a production arm that does audio and video work for the university and, occasionally, private clients," he says.

In a long career in campus administration Perry has had the opportunity to serve under 4 campus Chancellors in a variety of posts and has regularly represented the administration in dealings with students, faculty, staff, alumni, townspeople and legislators. A frequent campus spokesperson, Metz is a man with something to say.
